Contents

Preface vii

1 Theorizing the information society 1
Introduction 1
Understanding information 5
The information society 11
A note on further reading 19
Notes and references 19

2 A new technology for information 25
Introduction 25
Computers 26
Networks 29
A new age? 33
A note on further reading 39
Notes and references 39

3 The flow of information 43
Introduction 43
The old and the new 44
The internet and the world wide web 46
The dilemma of quality 51
A note on further reading 57
Notes and references 57

4 Information policy 60
Using information in the information society 60
Information policy: an introduction 64
Conclusion 85
A note on further reading 86
Notes and references 86

5 The information society in practice: the European experience 94
Introduction 94
Moving to a model Europe? 96
The rationale for a European information society policy 98
First steps towards a European information society 104
Europe's road to an inclusive information society 106
Implementing the information society in Europe 111
Moving forwards: the eEurope Action Plan 118
European organizations and institutions 121
Measuring the information society in Europe 122
Conclusion 124
A note on further reading 125
Notes and references 125

6 The future 131
Introduction 131
Convergence and cross-over 132
The consequences of change 140
Creating change 142
The implications of change 145
Theory and practice 147
Notes and references 150

Some suggestions for further reading 154
Bibliography 157
Websites 169
Index 175